“ Dear Jacob,
I'm so sorry for your loss. I know words can't make up for the pain, suffering, and grief you're going through right now, but I just wanted to let you know I'm here for you. I recently lost my uncle and I feel your pain, but not to your extent. I can't imagine losing one of my parents at this age, and I'm truly sorry for your loss. I just wanted to let you know that if you need to talk, I'm here for you. Hang in there bud.

Sorry for your loss,
Cristian Mondragon

“ I met Alice when I started at MPC. Her and I became friends very quickly and I soon realized that she was one of those people that are very special and rare. She always put others before herself and no matter how little she may have she would always give back something. I am so thankful to have met you and will never forget you. Russel and Jacob as I am sure you know you had a wonderful wife and a very special mom Jacob and always remember she is right beside you to watch over you.

“ I never did meet Alice, although I was acquainted with her husband and son. Jacob is such a thoughtful and responsible young man, and to me that is a sign of good and loving parents. I passed her house on my way to my job in La Farge, and I watched every day how the yard became more cared for and decorated, and how more and more pretty plants and flowers began to show up around the house. I did stop at the house once, but she was working. I noticed how nice and homey and clean it was. It was a lovely little home, lovingly cared for. So, even though I never met her, from what I did know, I can say that she was a caring and thoughtful person.

“ What if the brilliant twinkling stars that bring the dark sky to life are windows looking out of heaven?
And the very moment when we're wishing on those stars, hoping that the loved one we have lost are happy safe and free...
maybe they are looking at those same stars from the other side,
making the same wish for us
sending us all their love

Alice my little sister forever

“ I knew Alice from way back when...actually back in the "Akan's" days. She was terribly funny and never was at a loss for words. I haven't seen Alice in many years. I guess I assumed she had moved away from RC. My condolences go out to her family. May God bless you all.

“ I worked with Alice not to many years ago. We were employed by Seats Inc. Alice was a complete joy to work with. She always seemed to be happy even in the toughest of times. She often talked about her husband Russell and her little boy Jacob. We listened to her stories and we could imagine seeing her little boy grow up. As I learned of this tragedy and painful loss I have been able to piece together that Jacob played football for Richland Center. Football is a passion for this young man. Our Kory Stevens has come to know Jacob and from what I hear they have become friends as well. I also have another piece to this puzzle and that is Alice's mother-in-law is a very dear friend whom I have become acquainted with through the Goodwill store. Marjorie and her mother have been such a blessing to me. Jacob know that you are yet a young man with a huge support network. Make sure you use that network, talk about what your feeling , cry with the rest of us. The last thing that I know your mom does not want to happen, is for you to become angry and close yourself off to others. She was so proud of you Jacob. Continue to do that even though she is no longer here to watch and enjoy seeing you continue to grow and mature. You remember not long ago in November Kory and Jenni lost both a Grandpa and then 3 days later lost a grandma. The support from friends at school have been a help in grieving and healing, so please Jacob make sure you talk to your friends. I know Kory is a good listener and he will always be there for you. Russell, Alice always had good things to say about you. She truly loved you, I knew just by the way she talked. You treated her respectfully and she truly appreciated that. I know sometimes we don't always tell our spouses thank you or maybe not enough of I love you s, sometimes we take for granted that they know so I don't need to say as often. She knew! My prayers and thoughts are with all of you at this difficult time. Time can only heal so much of the pain and loss, but the memories are what hold us together. Think often of her, after all she was a huge part of your lives. In those happy times and thoughts you will find comfort and joy and celebrate her life.

Sincerely,

Tami Stevens and Family
