“ I remember a shotgun wedding as I sat in amazement as I watched all the Watson women running around getting everything set to put in a great wedding, how well you all worked together, but how she took charge and organized everyone. I thought she had to be in charge as kids, because everyone listened to her without question. How great you all worked together your mom told me later that was just the way you did things all together, I thought what a great family. And you all have carried on the tradition as life takes away members of your family it remains strong and united. What a miracle all of you have that strength

“ To Dave, Casey, Paul and all of the family,
I was shocked to learn of Emma's passing. I knew Emma through my PT job at the hospital. Emma was always so caring, always talked so lovingly of her family and how much everyone meant to her. She was thoughtful and kind, and we always shared some laughs together.
I am so sorry for your loss. The world has lost a gentle soul.

“ Jean always was so happy to see my daughter (Kournie) and myself. She was always smiling. She would invite us over for special gatherings such as Thanksgiving or Fourth of July. She would ask me advice with whatever was bothering her at the moment. Jean and Casey seemed to be together most places. Where I would see Casey I knew I could talk to Jean or visa verse. Jean had that light of love all around her that seem to shine to you as you talked to her. I love you Jean and will miss you dearly, but will see you later when I leave this world. Have that chair waiting for me so I can sit down and catch you up on what you missed. Bye for now and will see you later. All my love, Keith

“ EmmaJean and I climbed out her bedroom window one night. We really did not know what we were going to do but it was fun sneaking out. "We Thought" I hit the ground first then Jeannie. All of a sudden there was a voice in the night and it said "WHAT DO YOU TWO THINK YOUR DOING? We did not get anything over on big brother what so ever. We both went the same way back into the house as the way we came out and I think I actually ran over her. So many good memories. I will miss you Emmajean, you are in my heart forever. R.I.P. darlin

“ Where to begin..you were a one of a kind person. You always had that smile on your face everytime I seen you and there would be months or a year that I might not have seen you and you always made the time to talk. You had that special smile...every picture I see its with a smile and thats how I always will remember you. Im so happy I was able to see and talk to you at Paul's reception. You were the same Aunt Jeannie from when I was little til the last day I seen you. R.I.P. Aunt Jeannie...they recieved another wonderful Angel....til we meet again...

“ The first memory that comes to mind when I think of Jeanie is when we were kids about 4th to 6th grade. We would go to her house and make prank phone calls, if a woman answered we would ask for her husband (by name of course) and then complain to the woman that he was supposed to meet me at such and such a place but he never showed up! We thought this was just the best, but I really have wondered since how many marriages we added problems to. We were actually talking about this @ my mother's funeral a couple years back. funny, but yet not. Rest In peace my friend, wish we had kept in touch better.
