“ Gordon was a true Gentleman in every sense of the word. And a hero, really, to those of us, like me, who were much younger than he. I liked hearing him tell of his time in Italy during WW II. Maybe it was his time in the service that gave him his easygoing outlook on things. He was unique. I know his family and friends will miss him greatly, but I'm glad his long struggle is over. Rest easy, Gordon. A life well lived. And a great guy to those who admired you.
